Sumenep using qualitative methods through data collection techniques of interviews, observations and documentation. through various research subjects namely key informants namely the head of Bates village, main informants namely secretaries and Kaur and supporting informants namely the community in Bates Village. The focus of policy evaluation research consists of two variables, namely the planned positive impact and the negative impact outside of planning.*

The results of the study show two focuses, namely on the positive impact that the Bates village community has planned to experience from the village fund policy in the form of road repairs and direct cash assistance which is carried out once every 3 months in the form of rice. Road repairs have been carried out this year so that the community feels comfortable with public facilities. The negative impact outside of planning is that the Bates village BUMDes has not yet been implemented due to incompetent Human Resources (HR) which has hampered village administration.
